“ Bruce, I will always remember when we were kids sneaking out of your mom's house late at night, pushing your car far enough down the road that we thought we could start it, without your mom hearing, and then heading out to go cruising and drinking....of course your mom heard us and we were in a world of trouble when we got back... I will remember drag racing and drinking moonshine by the viaduct...and shooting squirrels...and after I left Bloomfield but came back to visit and went to your mom's house and asked "Where's Bruce" and they said, he's in the woods and got a deer...and you scaring the hell out of me with snakes...I sure wish I had caught up with more over years after we grew up...never will forget you and sure will miss you...
