“ I remember Chuck well from when I worked at the nursing home in housekeeping a few years ago. He was a real sweetheart. If he heard me in the hall outside his room, he would call to me and I would step in for a chat and a hug. I always teased him about having wild parties at the end of the hall. Even in his condition, he always seemed upbeat and ready for bingo. Chuck is in a much better place now, but will not be forgotten by those who cared for and about him. You have my heartfelt and deepest sympathies.
