“Earl was a kind and generous man. Since my first car was a rusty heap, I wanted to learn everything I could about body work so I could fix it up. I spent countless hours standing over Earl’s shoulder watching him work and asking countless questions. He never seemed to mind taking the time to share what he knew with a pesky young boy. I’ve thought many times over the years how he must have thought to himself “is this kid ever going to go away?”. The last time I spoke to him was probably a couple years or so ago. I made it a point to tell him how much I appreciated his generosity all those years ago. His response was classic Earl: “That’s what life is all about, helping each other”. Prayers to the family.

“ I am so very sorry for your loss. I have so many fond memories of Earl, Madge and family, as I grew up with them and used to visit their home lots of weekends when I was a small girl. My dad worked with Earl and they shared a love for flying that often blended our families together. As I grew up, and moved to Kentucky, I would always look forward to going back home to visit during the Scotland Festival just to hear Earl and family sing and play music. I was always fascinated with the cluster of glass grapes Madge had displayed on her coffee table! Loosing a parent is never easy. I pray that God can bring you peace and comfort during this most difficult time.
