“ Sharon,

My deepest condolences for your loss. It's not overstating for me to say that, when I think of a summation of my life, so to speak, one of its main pillars of that life is Rosie. As my brother Todd said in an earlier post, Rosie & Milo were our "Indiana Grandparents." She wasn't my grandmother... but she was. I love her as one, and thus she is. Rosie was truly special, truly remarkable and truly loved by those people that knew her. Think of the people whose homes you naturally gravitated to just gather and be amongst those you cared about, the warmth and gratefulness you'd feel just to be there. That was Rosie for me. Someone I have always been grateful to know and to love. Today forward, her loss is deeply felt... but also felt is, like being in her home, that warmth and gratefulness that we were able to know her and love her and carry her with us. My thoughts and wish for comfort to you and your family... but also my thanks and gratitude. Love, Wade

“ Hi Sharon,

What wonderful parents you had! Etta Rose was an amazing woman, and I'm guessing she's now loving being with Jesus and your father.

FYI: I still grow rhubarb from their garden. Dad got it from Milo and I got it from him. I'm known in our neighborhood as "the rhubarb lady." It looks like hosta and is much more practical:)

Know you will miss her. I still miss my folks, but the grandbabies keep coming so God's keeping me in the present. I LOVE it!

Much love,

Joyce (Hasler) Long

“ Sharon,
Rosie was such a good friend to Jerrill and myself when we were teenagers needing a place to hang out and have a Pepsi. I have thought about her and Milo many times over the years. They are both missed.

“ Growing up in Bloomfield with my grandparents hundreds of miles away, my brother Wade and I knew Rosie & Milo Hasler as our “Indiana grandparents.” They helped us fit into the community, since everyone knew the Haslers and they knew everyone, and they were just a bike ride away. They were both so sweet and supportive, I couldn’t have asked for better unofficial grandparents. Our love goes out to her family and everyone who knew and loved Rosie.
