“ Pappa was larger than life. Living exactly how he saw fit. I always looked up to his courage and determination. His advice was cherished since I knew he spoke from his heart. I didn't get to spend time with him nearly as much I would have liked. Miles and responsibilities worked against it. It did make those times so special, though.

When my phone lit up with his name, everything I was doing became non-consequential. I'll miss those phone calls but those conversations will forever live in my heart and mind. We spoke of everything from politics to grass seeds and everything in between. His wealth of information was amazing. Pappa was one of those people who leave an imprint on your life forever. He will most definitely not be forgotten.
