“ UNCLES

They are a unique creation. They are there for the phases of your life just like fathers. Uncles and grandparents are the backup when you think your father knows nothing, which, “yes” all of us go through that phase.

As a youngster, You look up to them For teaching, stories, games and all sorts of fun times.

As a teen, whether you are a teen with attitude or one that goes with the flow, You will tend to butt heads, a lot of times over stupid things that they really know best you will still need them for teaching and fun.

As an adult, You may look to them for advice when your parents are there Or even when your parents are no longer there for you. They can be your support for life changing decisions. You know that they have experience in many aspects of life you haven't dealt with.

You want to believe that they are invincible, but as an adult, you know that no one is. You know they will always be there and will always love you unconditionally. You also know in your heart that someday whether you are ready or not, God will call them home.
