“ I’m not much on words for myself, usually advising others. What I wouldn’t give for one more phone call saying you need me. What I wouldn’t give for “come on over I’ve got dinner ready” what I wouldn’t give for one more hug, what I wouldn’t give for one more of your corny stories, what I wouldn’t give for one more “I love you”. You passed away 25 minutes after I talked with you, you never told me you weren’t feeling well. We laughed and you said you loved me for the last time. You passed away on Veterans Day , even though you never served you will always be my hero. Even though you passed 25 minutes after our talk I got to tell you I loved you and I am forever grateful you knew before your heart beat it’s last beat. Dad... man what I wouldn’t give. Rest in Heaven dad, I’ll take it from here. ❤️

“ Our sweet dear neighbor! Ever since I was a little kid he'd always come down with fruit that was left over from his truck driving Route that week. He always had a smile. And quite the opinion on things too! NOBODY was a stranger to him. Every Halloween or holiday really anytime us kids were walking the road he'd always flag us down to come up for some cookies Judy made! Which were delicious. He'd always lend a helping hand in any means possible! All of us neighbors chipped in with helping him needing firewood, cleaning out the garage etc. Our neighborhood street got a little less light in it now, but we'll miss you forever!

“ To my beloved brother Robert Reynolds

A selfless man that sacrificed more than anyone could imagine for the betterment of his family and the family members that did not care for him.

Rest now in peace Bob. Your sister Nancy Reynolds
