Ronnie was and is a true and faithful and generous brother-in-law and friend. I always looked up to him not only because he was 4 inches taller than me but because of his integrity. I knew him for over 63 years. After he married my sister, he helped me get my first job in construction just after I graduated from high school. which helped me go to Purdue University. He helped me and my brother construct our houses. He could build about anything and worked in his career helping to build many of Indiana's interstate and main road bridges. He was always honest and upright in all things, truly an honorable man.
